The Daily Union Vedette.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 27, 1866.

Europeon Affairs.

The foreign news this morning shows that the Prussians are marching directly upon Vienna, and unless outside powers interfere there is a prospect that Bismark's idea of a new German Empire, with Prussia as a controlling power, will be brought about by overthrowing the power of the house of Hapsburg, which has for the last 430 years ruled Austria. To perfect this object Russia will have to be appeased with a slice of the Slavonic Provinces, and perhaps the neutrality of other powers will have to be secured in a similar manner; but the stake is heavy and Prussia can afford to be liberal.

Again, some American journals claim that France will immediately cede Venetia to Italy and thus effect a peace between her and Austria, when the three powers will join hands for the dismemberment of the Kingdom of Prussia.

But all surmises in regard to Napoleon's policy are in vain. He will engage in that cause which will bring the largest addition to the territory of France, and no man in Europe better understands this trait of his character than Bismark, who, by his tact and cunning, deserves the title of the modern Richelieu. The great dream of his life has been to re-establish the Empire of Charlamagne, which dates back one thousand years—a result which must improve that portion of the German people who are now under the rule of Austria. In fact it is high time that the House of Hapsburg give way to those whose ideas of government are more in accordance with modern civilization.

Mountain Meadow Massacre.

A correspondent of the S. F. Bulletin writing from Callville, Arizona, under date of June 25th, says of the Indians in that vicinity:

They are thoroughly posted in relation to the raids of Gen. Connor's command against the Indians farther North; the excitement existing in relation to the Mountain Meadow massacre; the endeavors made by the Government to ferret out and punish the actors in this, the bloodiest drama ever perpetrated on American soil; the fact that they are charged by the Mormons with being the sole perpetrators of that tragedy, and they fear that they will soon be held to a rigid accountability. It was to this valley of the Muddy, that a large portion of the stock taken from the massacred train was brought, and here was killed the only adult, a man by the name of Williams, who escaped from Mountain Meadows. These Indians do not hesitate to acknowledge their connection with the massacre, but charge the Mormons with being the instigators and chief actors in the tragedy. The tales they tell are horrible beyond description, and while it would be unjust, considering their present relations with the Mormons, to take all their statements for truth, it is impossible to resist the conviction that revenge for the killing of Parley Pratt, in Arkansas, was the inciting cause of the Mountain Meadow massacre, and that a band of Danites were the directors of its perpetration. I was astonished at the details by these Indians of circumstances and names; in the latter particular their statements were explicit, extending even to giving us the name of the lady under whose charge the surviving children were taken East. The Mormons have long been noted for their shrewed management of Indians, but events now transpiring indicate that their influence with the savages is lessening. The result may be the arrest and punishment of the white miscreants who planned the indiscriminate slaughter of men, women and children at Mountain Meadows.

From Dakota.

(Special Correspondence of the Denver News.)

Fort Reno, D. T., July 1, '66.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Since my last the tide of emigration to Montana and Idaho has been on the increase. Scarce a day but one or more trains have passed for the land of gold. About a week since a train composed of over one hundred wagons and near two hundred men passed here. Among the emigrants were several western officers who more or less distinguished themselves during the late war; and now "that this cruel war is over" and Uncle Sam having kindly dispensed with their services, are seeking a more profitable and bloodless field for labor. Several young ladies also accompanied the expedition. Success to the crinoline."

The Second Battalion, Eighteenth U. S. Infantry, Henry B. Carrington, Colonel commanding, arrived here on the 28th ult. Captain Proctor takes command of this post for the present, with one company of the command, while the Colonel, with the residue of the battalion, is to leave in a day or two, to establish the new posts on Big Horn and Yellowstone rivers.

A party of Indians paid us a visit yesterday, and succeeded in driving off near forty mules belonging to Smith & Leighton, post sutlers. Unfortunately, the cavalry horses were all out on herd at the time the alarm was given, and although pursuit was made as soon as the horses could be got in, the savages escaped with safety.

C and D companies, Fifth U. S. Infantry Volunteers, are relieved, and will leave in a day or two for Ft. Laramie.

DAKOTA.

GEN. Fitz Henry Warren, a Freesoiler, in 1852, and a Radical in 1862, now announces himself an "independent Johnson candidate for Congress" in the first district of Iowa, in opposition to Hon. James F. Wilson, the present incumbent and Radical candidate for re-election.

MR. George Peabody arrived in Montreal on Saturday. He was warmly welcomed, although, at his own request, a public reception was waived. He will remain in the provinces about ten days.

THE BATTLE OF CUSTOZZA.

The Defeat of the Italians.

[From the London Times, June 26.]

The defeat of the Italian army in front of Verona was even more complete than the first Austrian telegrams had led us to apprehend. We have now the bulletins of both parties, and they agree on all essential points. Meager and vague as telegraphic brevity and technical reserve necessarily make them, these dispatches reflect great honor on the truthfulness, moderation and dignity of the belligerents on either side.

The Italian army, divided into three corps and a reserve—making up a force of from 80,000 to 90,000 combatants—after crossing the Mincio at Goito and other points on Saturday afternoon, and sending reconnoitering parties toward Peschiera and Verona, encamped for the night at some place beyond Roverbella, equidistant from the two fortresses. On the ensuing morning an attempt was made upon those high positions of Sona, Somna Campagna and Santa Giustina, which command the 15 miles' railway line joining the two strongholds, positions which played a conspicuous part in the campaign of 1848. The object of the Italians was evidently to take possession of the railway so as to isolate Peschiera and secure a basis of operations against Verona. The Austrians, however, who were massed in great force at Verona, sallied forth from the place at daybreak, and, anticipating the Italian movements, took up their position on those hills, which are now everywhere bristling with bastions and redoubts, and may be looked upon as mere outworks of the two citadels, extending from the gates of one to those of the other. After a severe and bloody—or, as the Italians describe it, "desperate"—struggle, which lasted nearly the whole day—that longest of summer days—the Imperial army was victorious along th whole line. They stormed the summit of Montevento, where the Italians held out the longest, and at the close of the engagement, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, they also carried the position of Custozza, a spot fatal to Italian arms in their encounter with Radetski in July, 1848. The victors captured several guns and about 2,000 prisoners, and behaved, as the Archduke Albert's bulletin assures us, as we may readily believe, with even more than their ordinary bravery and endurance. On the same evening the Italian army was obliged to recross the Mincio.

The Italian accounts of the engagement present no points of material difference. According to them, the First Army Corps was sent forward to occupy some positions between Peschiera and Verona, but, being surrounded by superior forces, it "failed to effect its purpose," and the description given of its losses in the contest leaves as little doubt that it was all but anahilated.—The Second and Third Corps unable to —it is not very clear for what reason—advance to its rescue, were still in the evening "almost intact." It was also stated from Brescia that the army had maintained its position; but there is little doubt that it had to withdraw across the Mincio in the night. The Italians had several Generals wounded, among others the King's second son, Prince Amadeus, who has arrived at Brescia.

The Italians, we are assured, behaved with great heroism, and no doubt, although they lost the day, they came off without loss of honor. An advance across the Mincio, right into the heart of the Quadrilateral, is an enterprise which no other European army would, under such circumstances, have ventured upon, but a frenzy to do something seems to have possessed the whole Italian nation, and the men in command could think of nothing better than dashing their heads against these formidable stone walls.

Ever since 1848 and 1849, the Austrians have strained every nerve to strengthen these four citadels, and have extended their outworks so that the line between Peschiera and Verona especially is a vast intrenched camp. There is every probability, also, that the Italians were on this occasion outnumbered by their enemies, for the Austrians have from 200,000 to 250,000 men in Venetia, and as they had in their hands that most formidable of all engines of modern warfare, the railway, they had probably massed three-fourths at least of their troops in Verona ready for the long expected Italian inroad. The Archduke's bulletins, in fact, never speak of garrisons, but tell us that "the Imperial army" was in the field.

The King of Italy has fallen back behind the Mincio, where he is not likely to be pursued; but neither, perhaps, will the condition of his shattered army enable him to resume the offensive for some time to come. We have Austrian official assurance that Cialdini crossed the Po at Polesella on the 23d. The tidings of the King's retreat, however, ought to disconcert all the plans of the commander of the Fourth Corps, as he would at Padua, or anywhere else on the line between Verona and Venice, fall in with forces with which his 69,000 men would be unable to contend. The Italian fleet, we learn from Florence, steamed from Taranto on the 23d; but, if its destination be Venice, Persano is not likely to find any one to coöperate with him on the mainland. The failure of the King on the Mincio will propably break down the whole enterprise.

THE ITALIAN DEFEAT.

From "Malakoff," the Paris Correspondent of the New York Times:

Paris, Tuesday, June 26, 1866.

The unfortunate debut of the campaign in Venetia has caused great pain at Paris, but no surprise, for, as I have often told you, the French have no confidence in the Italians when opposed to the Austrians, and so I am obliged to hear on every side the usual "I told you so!" Seven years ago to-day, the 24th of June, and at the some hour in the day, the Austrians were driven in confusion across the Mincia at the same two crossings—Monzambano and Vallegio. The Austrians, however, were defeated on this side of the river, the Italians on the other side. Thus history is made and re-made.

Much consolation may be drawn from the manner in which this defeat was accomplished. Victor Emmanuel, his Generals and army, with more chivalry than discretion, loudly proclaimed where, when and how they were going to cross the Mincio and make their first attack, at the same time apparently not counting at all upon the enemy's great facilities for rapid concentration. With this idea predominant the King naturally expected that a part of the enemy at least must come from the east, from the direction of Albaredo, whereas they fell upon him from the north, and, doubling around his first advanced corps, nearly destroyed it. The Duke Albrecht had had time to collect his army in the neighborhood of Verona, and when Victor Emmanuel thought he was going to meet a third or half of the Austrian force in the Quadrilateral, he met probably three-fourths.

SENATE.

Chicago, July 24.

Washington specials say that the Senate yesterday confirmed Henry Stansberry as Attorney General, but did not reach Randall for Postmaster General, who will be confirmed.

The President has nominated John A. Dix as Minister to Hague, vice Sickles, declined.

HOUSE.

Washington, July 24.

The House on yesterday p. m. agreed to the Senate amendment to the Tennessee resolutions, by 37 to 25, Raymond and Jencks being the only Unionists voting in the negative.

GENERAL NEWS.

Chicago, July 23.

The Democratic State Central Committee, of Pennsylvania, announce a full delegation to the Philadelphia Convention, including ex-Governors Porter, Bigler and Packer; Chief Justices Woodward and Jeremiah I. Black; Judges Ellis, Lewis, Campbell, etc.

The Democrats have elected the following delegates to the Philadelphia Convention from the New York City districts: Henry Hilton, John McCool, James Monerief, Wm. B. McClay, W. Maires, Owen Keenan, Jas. Brooks, W. P. Lee, Fernando Wood and S. P. Ingraham.

The Democratic Central Committee of Wisconsin have appointed the following delegates at large, to the Philadelphia Convention: H. L. Palmer, Gabl B. Buck, Milton Montmorency and L. B. Willis.

Chicago, July 24.

Within the past day or two Vallandigham, Fernando Wood, Thorlow Weed, Raymond, Doolittle, Montgomery Blair, etc., have held lengthy interviews with the President and Seward, the object being understood to be to keep Vallandigham, Wood, &c. out of the Philadelphia Convention, but the decision arrived at was that the call was general and nobody can be excluded who approves it.

Vallandigham publishes a call in the Washington evening papers, inviting Ohio Democrats in town to meet at the Metropolitan Hotel for consultation.

Foreign News.

New York, July 23.

The steamer Scotia, from Liverpool 14th and from Queenstown the 15th, arrived this evening.

Consols closed at 86¾@86⅝ for money; 5-20's 67⅜@68. Cotton on Friday was more active, in prospect of peace, but Saturday's market was dull, with little enquiry and prices weak and declined ⅛d. Breadstuffs, although the weather was favorable for crops, had taken a decided upward turn. Flour advanced 1s. per sack; wheat 2d. per cental; Corn 9d@1s. In breadstuffs the market closed steady on Saturday, but little easier.

Accounts of the progress of French mediation are conflicting and nothing authentic transpired.

The threatened armed intervention is not confirmed, but French vessels have gone to Venetia.

The Times declares that England would not follow France in non-intervention that is intended to aggravate evils.

The Prussians were still advancing on the road to Vienna, their headquarters being at Sewitlan, with their vanguard reported at Serona.

The London papers regard the Prussians as within from 8 to 10 days of Vienna, with no gr at obstacle to overcome.

Benedek's army was rapidly reorganizing and on the 11th mustered 160,000, exclusive of cavalry and artillery.

Cialdini occupied Padua.

The Austrians were concentrating their forces for the protection of Tyrol and Istria.

La Marmora has resigned.

The telegraph fleet arrived off Valencia on the 13th. The cable was successfully spliced to the shore end, signals sent through the entire cable, and the Great Eastern commenced paying out. One hundred and thirty-four miles had been laid at last accounts, and the signals were perfect.

The Birmingham Banking Company suspended on the 14th, liabilities £2 000,000—a severe calamity for large Birmingham houses.

Paris Bourse, rentes 68f 60c.

The Paris Moniteur says negotiations are still progressing and the best of feeling prevails between France and Prussia.

The Vienna Press of Saturday evening says Napoleon's mediation is ended for the present and Austria must trust to her own strength and resources. She is resolved to make a most strenuous exertion to maintain her position as a great power.

The Fenian Movement.

Fenianism is an extinct "crater" at present (it was a lively volcano a few days since) in this city. The papers this morning hardly do it the poor reverence of an editorial allusion. But the leaders stoutly contend that the "end is not yet," and while the money continues to flow in their words will no doubt have significance. Six thousand dollars in gold are said to have been received by the last steamer from the Fenians in California. The conduct of the Administration has been roundly abused by the sympathizers with the cause. Even the Tribune has a tilt at President Johnson, and thinks the zeal of both the War and State Departments of the Government might have been exercised in a better cause than against the Fenians.—For this the Times of course takes its neighbor to task. "Perhaps," says the irate editor, alluding to the Tribune's pleading for fair play toward the Fenians, "the Tribune thinks this sort of plastering is misunderstood by the Irish people. We can assure our cotemporary that it is not. If a raving Fenian should curse and swear at President Johnson—as the Tribune's Fenian friend has been doing—for twenty years, it would not change any more party political votes than will the editor's own outrageous attack upon the Government for a prompt execution of United States laws, which no civilized people could afford to see defied."

The Fenian referred to is an individual who, at the meeting in Cooper Institute a few evenings before, is said to have given his opinion of the President in the following choice imprecations:—"G—d d—n the Southern heart of the black-mouthed Southern skunk! By the Eternal! he shall never be President of the United States again." But the "best abused" man of the Administration is Secretary Seward. Language would fail to convey a just idea of the wrath and curses heaped upon his head by the Fenians. The Times, by its hearty and unsparing denunciation of the late movement, is linked with the Secretary of State in the sentiments of hate and vindictiveness which swell the Fenian bosom.—New York Correspondent Sacramento Union.

THE last rumor from the European seat of war is that Gen. McClellan and Field-Marshal Benedek have opened a law office in Vienna.

The Daily Union Vedette

Local and Miscellaneous.

☞ ADVERTISERS.—The VEDETTE is the pioneer daily newspaper of Utah. Its immense circulation in every mining camp and city of Montana and Idaho, (to which it gives the telegraphic despatches a whole week ahead of the Pacific papers,) makes it the most advantageous medium for advertising in these four growing Territories.

O. J. GOLDRICK, traveling solicitor, for VEDETTE subscriptions and advertisements, through the Pacific States and Territories.

JOHN G. SAXE says it is not necessary to be a profligate, a mendicant or predisposed to pulmonary consumption to be a poet.

ENGLAND is neutral in the pending conflict in Europe, as it was during our war. A pickpocket is always neutral when there is a row going on. He cannot stop to quarrel in such good times.

ONLY one reason why the "Queen's Own" didn't whip the Fenians at Ridgway, single-handed—they went the wrong way. That's what General Napier says.

THE Government authorities have entered a nolle prosequi in the indictment against Isaac V. Fowler for embezzlement of the public funds while postmaster of New York some years ago.

A representative of several of the wealthy Chinese companies of San Francisco has started for the East with the view of introducing Chinese labor in the cotton States.

TO CALIFORNIA VOLUNTEERS.—Mr. Isadore Morris requests us to state that he will be on hand at Camp Douglas today, fully prepared to pay the highest possible price for State Bounties to the members of the 3d California Infantry. Hold on to your papers, boys, until you see Morris. 1t

PERSONAL.—Among the arrivals by Wednesday night's coach was Judge W. A. Carter of Fort Bridger. The Judge has been in Washington nearly all winter, where he has labored with great success in forwarding the interests of Utah.

THE Missouri Democratic State Convention endorses President Johnson, and appoint a full delegation to the Philadelphia Convention, including Lewis V. Bogle, Barton Able, Samuel J. Glover, J. M. Richardson and Thomas L. Price.

THE Bear River correspondent of the Denver News, writing July 4th, says the prospects are good, though he has not yet discovered anything to warrant the present excitement.

A letter from Como, Italy, of June 14, in the Paris Siecle, says: Yesterday Miss Grant, a relative of the celebrated American General, sent £40 to General Garibaldi to distribute to his poorest volunteers.

YESTERDAY we received a large supply of printing material including 20,000 pounds of news printing paper and a Degener's "Liberty" press. With the latter we are able to offer unusual inducement to those in want of cards, labels, small posters, &c. This stock was purchased and shipped from New York in May, 1865, having been over fourteen months on the road.

COMMODORE RODGERS.—Lieut. Miller, Lieut. Whitehead and Ensign Ludlow of Commodore Rodgers' suite left for the East by yesterday's coach. The Commodore and Dr. Peck follow to-day. Commodore Rodgers has had a long and honorable career in the naval service of his country, as did his ancestors before him, and our citizens would have been glad, had our countrified city possessed the facilities, to have tendered a formal assurance of their high appreciation of him as an officer and a gentleman

TRI-WEEKLY REPUBLICAN.—The above is the title of the new tri-weekly established at Helena, Montana, by Messrs. D. W. Tilton & Co. We are in receip. of the first number, which presents a fine appearance. Its news columns are full of interesting matter, while the editorial department appears to be in able hands. Its politics are strong Union. Terms: One year, $16; six months, $10; three months, $6.

PERSONAL.—Yesterday our sanctum was enlivened by the presence of our old friend, Captain E. P. Drake, of the 11th Ohio Cavalry, who has just arrived from Fort Laramie. The Captain was present at the Indian Council held at that Post, and says the whole thing was a humbug. Only that band of the Sioux and Cheyennes appropriately known as the "Laramie Loafers" had anything to do with the treaty. The main body of the warriors of both tribes remained in the back-ground and stubbornly refused to accept any terms of peace.

The "Laramie Loafers" are well known to all who have ever lived in the vicinity of Laramie as one of the most shiftless bands of Indians on the plains. They have always remained about Laramie, obtaining a living by petty pilfering, begging and bumming off the Government, while the younger and more courageous were on the "war path," doing all the mischief.

HOW TO SUBDUE THE APACHES.—Governor McCormick of Arizona has addressed a letter to the Secretary of War giving his views as to the best method of fighting the hostile Apaches. He says these savages do not number over one thousand, but are exceedingly wily, and that regular troops are of no account in dealing with them. He adds:

"On the contrary the Arizonians have shown characteristics which clearly prove that they are the right men in the right place. The two companies have killed and captured (although kept in camp much of the time from a lack of supplies) more Apaches than have all the other troops in the Territory within the same time. Since the first of February one company and a detachment of another have in several scouts from Camp Lincoln on the Verde, fifty miles east of Prescott, killed more than ninety Apaches without the loss of a man. The efficiency of the natives may be attributed to various reasons: They are stimulated by a desire to avenge the loss of friends and property at the hands of the Apaches, by which nearly all have suffered; they are entirely familiar with the country and with the haunts and habits of the Indians; they prefer active duty to life in camp; they understand the art of making long marches without transportation, cheerfully packing their provisions and blankets upon their backs. The night march, so repulsive and fatiguing to other troops, is their forte, as it is a secret of their success. Concealing themselves by day and following the fires by night, they enter the very heart of the Apache country without being discovered, and often come upon the enemy before his dogs are aroused. In the matter of subsistence they prefer pinole (parched corn or wheat ground) and jerked meat, which may be readily prepared, of which many rations can be compressed in a small compass, and which American troops would consider intolerable fare.

I do not hesitate to say that these native volunteers, whose hearts are in the work and who are at home in the country, are the men to hunt the Apache, to follow him from fastness to fastness, and, by concerted, continuous and harassing movements from many points in the Territory, to force him to terms, or, if necessary, to exterminate him. That they are not comparable to the regulars, or to the California Volunteer, in many respects, is conceded; but for the work in hand they are much better adapted than any troops we have had.

With the regulars at the posts and ten companies of natives in the field, led by energetic captains chosen from American citizens long resident in the Territory and familiar with the Spanish language, I am confident that the Apache may, within two years, be so thoroughly overcome that he will gladly accept a Reservation and never again be a terror or an annoyance. Moreover, the plan commends itself to the Government on the score of economy. It is my belief that the expense of raising and maintaining ten companies of the natives in action for a year will not exceed that incurred in transferring the Fourteenth Regiment from the East to the Territory. I sincerely hope that the order of the War Department stopping recruiting for the Arizona First because the war in the East had ceased will be revoked and authority given, in accordance with the request of the Territorial Legislature, to have the regiment filled (a work of no difficulty) and kept in service for the term of two years. Thus, with less than thirty companies in all, the posts may be well garrisoned, the transportation protected, and an unremitting and telling aggressive war be waged upon the Apache, so that within a brief period the whole military force, saving a few troops to guard the Reservations, may be withdrawn from the Territory, and a large possession be made the secure and lucrative home of a great population and a source of revenue to the Government.

[Special Dispatch to the Missouri Democrat.]

Indians on the Platte.

St. Joseph, July 10.

Parties who reached here to-day from Denver report great excitement in the region of the Little Blue river, because of the presence of large bands of roving Indians whose manners foretell hostilities. The Cheyennes murdered a settler named Miller not long since, have fired upon several others, burned some abandoned houses, and are stealing mules and cattle. The whites beyond the Blue are leaving their homes and crops, and moving back to the river settlements for safety. The whole region is overrun with these bands, and their disposition is quite hostile. They have taken umbrage at the encroachments of the whites in the Smoky Hill region, and it is feared they will make a raid all the way from the Blue to the Smoky Hill Valley. It is estimated that these bands number in the aggregate ten thousand; and having just returned from Fort Laramie, they are well supplied with ammunition. They have left the main traveled avenues, a circumstance that is interpreted to signify an early commencement of depredations.—A party of two hundred Sioux have appeared in the region of O'Fallon's Bluffs. Unfortunately there are but United States troops in the threatened vicinity.

FROM MONTANA.—The steamer St. John arrived at Ft. Benton, on the 9th, with fifty soldiers. Six hundred additional soldiers are at the mouth of the Judith. The steamers Luella and Deer Lodge have arrived for the second time this season. The Nellie Rodgers is also in....Geo. Rosenbaum, butcher of Virginia City, received on the 15th, in the presence of about 1500 spectators, fifty lashes on his bare back. The charge against him was stealing on general principle....Acting Governor Meagher has gone over to Ft. Benton to try and induce the troops, that have landed at the Judith, to take up a more central position....The mines in Confederate Gulch are being re-located.

IT is reported that a marked change in the Horse Shoe Falls at Niagara has occurred within a few days. Large portions of rock have given way in the centre of the shoe, giving the fall now more of a triangular appearance, which is said to add to its beauty. It has been demonstrated that the Falls recede ten or twelve inches a year.

From California.

[From the Enterprise.]

San Francisco, July 20.

Suits were commenced in the Fourth District Court this morning against L. W. Raymond, agent of the opposition steamship line and the steamship Jenny Taylor, and also against Oliver Eldridge, agent of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and the steamship Golden Age, for violating the State Revenue law in not having affixed stamps to their tickets as required by the laws of this State.

It is understood that the new steamer S. W. Whipple will commence making regular trips between this city and Sacramento on Monday next.

The election for delegates to the Union County Convention came off last night and resulted as a whole in the choice of a tolerable good Convention.

A dispatch dated Visalia, July 19th, says: "Returns from the late election in the new county of Kern, show the election of the Democratic ticket by a majority of about 200."

The case of Theodore C. Sanborn, indicted for obtaining money by false pretenses, will be tried in the County Court next Tuesday.

Judge Rice yesterday dismissed the complaint charging T. E. Bachelder and Thos. Anabro with conspiracy.

The Democratic County Convention met again last evening, and after eight ballotings nominated James McElroy for Chief of Police. The Convention adopted resolutions ignoring and repudiating any expression of sympathy or participation in the treasonable sentiments alleged to have been uttered by delegate Pullen at the previous meeting, and denying that such expressions were received by the Convention with applause.

There are some vessels on the berth with orders to load wheat for export this year of one hundred and fifty thousand tons.

FROM THE PLATTE.—From the Fort Kearney Herald of the 17th we glean the following:

Passed Ft. Kearney, July 16th, Conductor J. Drake; 35 wagons, 43 men, 20 revolvers, 35 guns; bound for Salt Lake.

Ft. Laramie, July 15.

No signs of Indian hostilities. All quiet. Most of the tribes have gone on their summer hunt.

THE Vigilantes are sending warnings to certain parties about Fort Kearney.

THE Pawnees and Omahas are camped near Fort Kearney, and are not behaving themselves very well.

HEPWORTH Dixon will soon start for his tour in the United States. He proposes to visit Utah and describe the Mormons and perhaps become one—if it pays.—Exchange.

If those are his principles he will find plenty of congenial spirits in this city.

COL. Thomas A. Scott and other leading railroad engineers are asking the consent of Congress to tunnel the Mississippi river at St. Louis, instead of bridging it; the tunnel to be constructed of wrought iron, not to exceed in cost three millions of dollars, and to be completed in three years.

Sentimental youth—"My dear girl, will you share my lot for life?" Practical girl—"How many acres are there are in your lot, sir?"

THE huge form of our popular fellow-citizen, Col. J. M. Chivington, arrived in yesterday's coach from Atchison, three or four days in advance of his first train. He is looking very well, the Champion to the contrary notwithstanding.—Denver News. 20th.
